Chairman's Message/Message du président du conseil

ANOTHER busy moving season is in the books and movers across the country have earned a well-deserved rest (but stay away from the Caribbean for now).

2017 has been a busy year for CAM as our various committees work on your behalf to ensure that we, as an Association, are at the forefront of the issues that plague our industry. Hijacked websites, criminal activity and rogue movers, just to name a few. We have developed strong relationships with various levels of government, police forces and all forms of media from coast to coast to be the leading advocate for the moving industry in Canada.

This year our Association has been faced with the task of again choosing a new President. In the spring, current President Pat Greaney announced his retirement from the Association. Pat was gracious enough to agree to stay on until the conclusion of our Annual Conference (this year in Montreal). We thank Pat for his time leading CAM. Your Board of Directors has chosen Nancy Irvine as Pat's replacement. Nancy has vast experience in leading various associations, working with government and in the moving industry. We look forward to working with Nancy.

Another huge change in leadership has taken place in the moving industry. In September, Anne Martin retired from United Van Lines (Canada) Ltd. after dedicating more than 30 years to our business. Anne has been a well-respected and admired leader for her company and her participation with CAM has been appreciated. Enjoy your retirement, Anne, but remember, you're in for life! Dan Lawrence has taken over for Anne and we are proud to welcome Dan on as a Director.

Another addition to our Board is Steve Stockill. Steve was recently elected by our supplier members to represent them on the Board. Steve will function as Chairman of the Supplier Committee. Steve and his company, Victory Packaging, have been long-time members of the Association. Welcome aboard, Steve.

On a personal level, I would like to thank you all for giving me the opportunity and trust to have chaired the Board for the last couple years. In 2005, I was invited by then President John Levi to join the Board as a Director. Since that time, I've served as a Director, Secretary-Treasurer, Vice Chairman and Chairman. I count it a privilege to have been entrusted with those responsibilities. I've seen many changes in the past 12 years, a renewed interest in our Association and a bright future. As I step aside

UNE AUTRE saison fort occupée vient tout juste d'être complétée et les déménageurs de toutes les régions du pays ont certes droit à un repos bien mérité (mais tenez-vous éloigné des Caraïbes pour le moment).

2017 a également été une année fort occupée pour l'ACD alors que nos divers comités ont travaillé en votre nom afin de s'assurer que nous soyons tous, en tant qu'association, à l'avant-garde des enjeux qui affectent notre industrie. Sites Web détournés, activités criminelles et déménageurs malhonnêtes représentent certains de ces enjeux. Nous avons développé d'excellentes relations avec les différents paliers de gouvernement, les forces policières et les différents types de média d'un océan à l'autre afin d'être le principal porte-parole de l'industrie du déménagement au Canada.

Cette année, notre association a été confrontée à la tâche de se choisir encore une fois un nouveau Président. Au printemps dernier, le président actuel, Pat Greaney, nous annonçait son retrait prochain de l'Association. Pat a fait preuve d'une grande courtoisie en acceptant de demeurer en poste jusqu'à la conclusion de notre Conférence annuelle (à Montréal, cette année). Nous remercions Pat pour le temps passé à la direction de l'ACD. Votre Conseil d'administration a choisi Nancy Irvine pour le remplacement de Pat à cette position. Nancy possède une vaste expérience dans la direction de diverses associations, ayant travaillé auprès du gouvernement et de l'industrie du déménagement. Nous nous réjouissons à la perspective de collaborer avec Nancy.

Un autre changement majeur au niveau du leadership est également survenu dans l'Industrie du déménagement. En septembre, Anne Martin a pris sa retraite chez United Van Lines (Canada) Ltd. Après avoir dédié plus de 30 années de sa vie à notre industrie. Anne a été une dirigeante fort respectée et admirée au sein de son entreprise et sa participation avec l'ACD a été plus qu'appréciée. Profites bien de ta retraite, Anne, mais rappelle-toi plus que tout que tu feras partie de notre groupe pour la vie! Dan Lawrence remplace Anne et nous sommes heureux d'accueillir Dan avec nous à titre de Directeur.

Steve Stockill est une autre addition récente à notre Conseil d'administration. Steve a récemment été élu par nos membres fournisseurs afin de les représenter sur le Conseil. Steve agira à titre de président du Comité des fournisseurs. Steve et sa compagnie, Victory Packaging, ont été des membres de longue date de notre association. Bienvenue à bord, Steve.

President's Message/Message du président

THE TERM 'mental health' is one that many people avoid. In line with the theme of our 2017 conference – Change – Today's New Constant – it is also time to recognize that the term 'mental health' and how to treat ourselves are also changing. Historically, it may have been common practice to only consider the one extreme of human mental health, i.e., when an individual loses their grasp on normality of society. The balance between one's mental and physical states is one that is always in flux. As our physical state can be affected by disease, malnutrition, the environment and host of other internal and external factors, so can our mental state. In balance, we, as a living entity, grow, flourish and continue to evolve as we cope with our physical and mental environments. WE change.

But when our physical and/or our mental state is out of balance, some of us are not able to cope. We are not able to accept change. At the most extreme levels of imbalance, we cannot perform the most simple and routine functions. One growing area of study in the area of personal well-being is the effect of stress on our day-to-day activities. Everyone has some level of stress in their life at one time or another. How individuals, in their dynamic balance of physical and mental wellness, identify areas and intensity of stress varies.

According to the Holmes-Rahe Life Stress Inventory, moving is the third most stressful event in one's life. Add to it all the events that require the move – death, marriage, employment, etc. – and you find that relocating individual or family is stressed to the limit. Their mental state is compromised. But that is only one side of the equation.

As a mover, each of the players providing the moving service is constantly battling elements of uncertainty. The circumstances of every move are subject to almost constant change: labour, time, rest, distance, space, weather, equipment and more. The owners, dispatchers and van foreman all are under continual stress because of CHANGE.

In any move then, the circumstances of the day find a confrontation of two parties both heavily stressed by what is about to happen. The mental health of both parties is to be tested.

How do we handle this volatility? As a mover, we cope by understanding the stress our customer is under and by being empathetic, using our training and communicating, but mostly, by keeping above all a sense of humour.

As we will come to understand from our conference speakers, change is the constant, but in today's world, it is further complicated by the speed at which change occurs.

Change is inevitable; we must accept it and move on. On that note, my personal circumstances have changed and

LE TERME "santé mentale" est un terme que plusieurs personnes évitent. En ligne avec le thème de notre conférence 2017 – Le changement – Nouvelle réalité d'aujourd'hui – c'est également le temps de reconnaître que le terme "santé mentale" et comment nous traiter changent tout autant. Historiquement, ce fut probablement une pratique courante de considérer uniquement la seule absence totale de santé mentale c.-à-d. lorsqu'un individu perd tout lien avec la normalité de la société. L'équilibre entre l'état mental et l'état physique d'une personne varie constamment. Notre condition physique pouvant être affectée par la maladie, la malnutrition, l'environnement et une foule d'autres facteurs internes et externes, notre état mental peut l'être tout autant. Dans une situation équilibrée, en tant qu'entité vivante, nous grandissons, fleurissons et continuons d'évoluer tandis que nous composons avec nos environnements physique et mental. NOUS changeons.

Mais, lorsque notre état physique et/ou mental n'est plus en équilibre, certains d'entre nous ne sont pas capables d'y faire face. Nous ne pouvons pas accepter ce changement. Aux niveaux les plus extrêmes de déséquilibre, nous ne sommes pas en mesure d'exercer les fonctions les plus simples et les plus routinières. L'effet du stress sur nos activités quotidiennes est un domaine d'étude en croissance dans la sphère du bien-être personnel. À un moment ou l'autre, chaque personne a un certain niveau de stress dans sa vie. Face à l'équilibre dynamique de leur bien-être physique et mental, la façon dont les individus identifient les secteurs de stress et leur intensité varie.

Selon une étude de Holmes-Rahe sur le recensement du stress dans la vie, le déménagement est le troisième événement le plus stressant dans une vie. Ajoutez à ce fait tous les autres événements associés à un déménagement – la mort, le mariage, l'emploi et autres – et vous constaterez que la relocalisation d'un individu ou d'une famille est stressante au plus haut point. Leur condition mentale est ainsi compromise. Mais, il ne s'agit là que d'un élément de l'équation.

Comme déménageur, chacun des intervenants fournissant des services de déménagement doit constamment affronter des éléments d'incertitude. Les circonstances de chaque déménagement sont sujets à de perpétuels changements : main d'œuvre, temps, repos, distance, espace, température, équipement et encore plus. Les propriétaires, répartiteurs et chefs d'équipe de camions sont tous soumis à un stress permanent en raison du CHANGEMENT.

Don Campbell's Third Child – Campbell Group of Companies

By Carrie Capone and Kimberly Myles

Today, the Campbell Group of Companies are start-to-finish service-providers in the relocation industry

THE CAMPBELL GROUP of Companies has a long history; they are strong and successful – and their foundation has not changed in five generations. Family-owned and operated for over a century, their history can be traced back to the 1890's when moving consisted of horse and buggy. Don Campbell was born into the business as a fourth generation mover and was very proud of his family's dynasty. He was eager to learn as much as he could and trained for every position in order to become as knowledgeable as possible. He started off in his younger years, in the 50's, as a helper; it was during these years that the company joined North American Van Lines. Don then joined the firm full time in the late 60's as a driver. He took charge of dispatch, moving it from St. Thomas to London in the 70's. He also worked in sales and claims, learning every aspect of the business.

In 1964, Don's father made a decision, with the support of his family and employees, to make a change and joined United Van Lines. United Van Lines rose from the smallest van line in 1964 to the largest in 1980 and the Campbell Group of Companies played a significant role in that growth.

In 1986, with his father's unexpected passing, Don was catapulted into the position of President and so began his journey of taking the company to another level. Don worked diligently alongside his sister, Vickie, and cousin, Neil, who were now all equal partners in the ownership of the company.

Working toward his vision, Don continued to expand across Canada organically as well through acquisitions of competitors and by new product development to serve existing clients in new ways related to the core business. Under his supervision, the company opened new locations across Ontario and then moved into the Maritimes, Quebec, Alberta and Manitoba.

Today, the Campbell Group of Companies are start-to-finish service-providers in the relocation industry – moving families and doing it for corporations, government and private businesses on a global basis; meeting all needs in a one-stop concept – appraisals, real estate, legal, asset management, moving and expense management – are all part of the services they offer. Their ongoing expansion of core services has solidified the Campbell Group of Companies as the only Canadian, family-owned company to provide customized relocation and moving services from a single point of contact on a world-wide platform.

While headquartered in London, the Campbell Group of Companies continues to grow and now operates moving companies serving 23 communities across Canada, from Calgary to Halifax, and includes full service relocation through TransferEASE and real estate services across Ontario through Accsell Realty.

The company was named one of Canada's Best Managed companies for 2015 and 2016, one of the Profit 500's Fastest Growing Companies in 2016 and was a finalist in the London Chamber of Commerce Business Achievement Awards in the Business of the Year category several times.

The Campbell Group of Companies owes its continued success to the many details Don put forth as being important to a growing company. Embracing technology is an example of this; the Campbell Group believes in continual innovation through technology. They have in-house development staff for system, web and mobile applications. This development of client-friendly, easy-to-use technology is and will continue to be essential for future growth. They have their programming staff build tools for the purpose of making it easier for customers to engage with them and easier for their employees to do their jobs. Don also thought it was important to use technology whenever possible. He was constantly advocating going paperless and felt that green initiatives should lead to cost reduction and increased profitability.

Another element Don put forth as necessary is recognizing the importance of engaging, developing and retaining quality employees. He understood the power of positive recognition and continuously rewarded exceptional examples of service by employees. The Campbell Group has structured reward programs for all staff positions, offers employment growth opportunities, incorporates employee feedback into their processes and is constantly looking for new ways to increase employee engagement, along with developing training courses that are industry relevant and offering continued education to its employees.

Don's leadership and vision was a large influence on the company's success, building the company up from only a handful of employees to having hundreds of employees across the country. Don was a big man with a quiet voice but he always had something important to say when he chose to share it. He loved his family, his work and his community. Don was driven to continually expand and enhance services but never forgot his roots and gave back to his community regularly, donating often to dozens of charities over the course of his lifetime.

The fifth generation is now taking leadership after the recent loss of Don Campbell. Fortunately, he had plans in place for his successors and had invested into their education and training to best prepare them to take the company into the future. They have all been exposed to the family values of hard work, honest work and treating others the way they would want to be treated. These are simple values but are not always followed in business. However, Don instilled these values into the next generation to be used in every aspect of the company and so the fifth generation is poised to take the Campbell Group of Companies into the next decades.

Don touched the hearts of many and will be dearly missed. His employees, friends and family will ensure his Legacy lives on through the next generation and the generations to follow.

Le troisième enfant de Don Campbell – le Groupe d’entreprises Campbell

Par Carrie Capone et Kimberly Myles

Kimberly Myles (à gauche) et Carrie Capone (à droite)

Aujourd’hui, le Groupe
d’entreprises
Campbell est un fournisseur de services complets opérant dans l’industrie de la relocalisation

L E GROUPE D’ENTREPRISES CAMPBELL possède une longue histoire; c’est une compagnie forte et ayant connu beaucoup de succès – et ses fondations n’ont pas changé depuis cinq générations. Entreprise à propriété unique exploitée depuis plus d’un siècle, on retrouve des traces de son histoire jusque dans les années 1890 alors qu’un déménagement était effectué avec un cheval et une charrette. Don Campbell est issu d’une famille de déménageurs dont il représentait la quatrième génération et il était très fier de sa dynastie familiale. Il était désireux d’en apprendre le plus possible et a suivi les formations de tous les postes dans l’entreprise afin d’en savoir le plus possible. Il a débuté tout jeune comme aide dans les années 50; c’est au cours de cette période que la compagnie s’est jointe à North American Van Lines. Don a par la suite rejoint l’entreprise à temps plein vers la fin des années 60 comme chauffeur de camion. Il devint responsable de la répartition en la déplaçant de St. Thomas à London dans les années 70. Il a également travaillé dans le service des ventes et des réclamations, apprenant tous les aspects de l’organisation.

En 1964, le père de Don prit la décision, avec le support de sa famille et de ses employés, d’effectuer un changement majeur en se joignant à United Van Lines. United Van Lines s’est développée, passant de la plus petite compagnie de transport en 1964 à la plus importante en 1980 et le Groupe Campbell joua un rôle significatif dans cette croissance.

En 1986, avec le décès prématuré de son père, Don fut catapulté à la position de président et c’est ainsi que débuta son parcours qui lui a permis de mener l’entreprise à un autre niveau. Don a travaillé avec diligence aux côtés de sa sœur, Vickie, et de son cousin, Neil, qui étaient partenaires égaux dans l’entreprise.

Travaillant à réaliser sa vision, Don continua à poursuivre l’expansion de l’entreprise à travers le Canada, aussi bien à l’interne que par le biais d’acquisitions de compétiteurs ainsi que par le développement de nouveaux produits afin de servir la clientèle existante avec de nouvelles méthodes principalement liées à l’activité principale de celle-ci. Sous sa supervision, la compagnie a ouvert de nouveaux emplacements à travers l’Ontario, puis s’est par la suite déplacée dans les Maritimes, au Québec, en Alberta et au Manitoba.

Aujourd’hui, le Groupe d’entreprises Campbell est un fournisseur de services complets opérant dans l’industrie de la relocalisation – déménageant des familles ainsi que des compagnies, des organismes gouvernementaux et des entreprises individuelles à l’échelle mondiale; répondant à un ensemble de besoins avec un concept de guichet unique – évaluations, immobilier, aspects légaux, gestion d’actifs, gestion du déménagement et des dépenses – offrant ainsi une panoplie de services intégrés. L’expansion continue de leurs services liés à l’activité principale de l’entreprise a contribué à solidifier les assises du Groupe d’entreprises Campbell pour en faire la seule entreprise canadienne à propriétaire unique à offrir des services de relocalisation et de déménagement personnalisés à partir d'un point de contact unique à l'échelle mondiale.

Bien qu'ayant son siège social à London, le Groupe Campbell poursuit sa croissance et exploite maintenant des compagnies de déménagement desservant 23 communautés partout au Canada, de Calgary à Halifax, et fournit un service complet de relocalisation par l'intermédiaire de TransferEase ainsi que des services immobiliers à travers l'Ontario par l'intermédiaire d'Accsell Realty.

L'entreprise a été nommée à titre de l'une des compagnies les mieux gérées au Canada en 2015 et 2016, l'une des compagnies affichant la meilleure croissance nommées par Profit 500 en 2016 et a été à multiples reprises finaliste du prix d'excellence en affaires de la Chambre de commerce de London dans la catégorie Entreprise de l'année.

Le Groupe Campbell doit son succès continu à tous ces petits détails que Don jugeait important pour une compagnie en croissance. Adopter les nouvelles technologies en est un bon exemple; le Groupe Campbell croit dans l'innovation permanente par les technologies. La compagnie possède son propre personnel de développement interne pour le système informatique ainsi que pour les applications Web et mobiles. Ce développement de technologie conviviale et facile d'utilisation est et continuera d'être essentiel pour la croissance future de l'entreprise. Son équipe de programmation développe des outils dans le but de permettre aux clients de facilement établir contact avec l'entreprise ainsi que de permettre à ses employés d'accomplir leur travail plus aisément. Don pensait également qu'il était important de se servir de la technologie à chaque fois que c'était possible. Il supportait constamment l'idée de diminuer la paperasse et il estimait que les initiatives vertes devraient mener à des réductions de coûts et à une augmentation de la profitabilité.

Un autre élément que Don considérait comme une nécessité est la reconnaissance de l'importance d'embaucher, de perfectionner et de retenir des employés de qualité. Il a bien compris le pouvoir de la reconnaissance positive et il s'est assuré de continuellement récompenser les exemples de services exceptionnels de ses employés. Le Groupe Campbell a mis en place des programmes de récompense pour tous les niveaux de personnel, offre des opportunités d'avancement, incorpore les informations fournies par les employés dans le cadre des processus de l'entreprise et est constamment à la recherche de nouvelles façons d'accroître l'implication de ses employés, de pair avec le développement de cours de formation qui sont pertinents à l'industrie et offre une formation continue à ses employés.

Le leadership et la vision de Don ont eu une grande influence sur les succès de l'entreprise, la faisant passer d'entreprise constituée d'une poignée d'employés à une entreprise possédant des centaines d'employés partout au pays. Don était un homme de bonne stature possédant une voix calme, mais il avait toujours quelque chose d'important à dire lorsqu'il choisissait de le partager. Il aimait sa famille, son travail et sa communauté. Don avait l'objectif de continuellement développer et améliorer les services, mais il n'a jamais oublié ses racines et il a su redonner régulièrement à sa communauté en faisant des dons à des douzaines d'organismes de charité au cours de sa vie.

La cinquième génération dirige maintenant l'entreprise suite à la récente perte de Don Campbell. Heureusement, ses plans étaient déjà bien établis en vue de sa succession et il avait investi dans l'éducation et la formation de ses remplaçants afin de les préparer au mieux à prendre les guides de l'entreprise pour l'avenir. Ils ont été exposés aux valeurs familiales que sont le travail ardu, le travail honnête ainsi que la considération à accorder aux autres tout comme eux-mêmes souhaiteraient être considérés. Ce sont là des valeurs simples, mais qui ne sont pas toujours suivies dans l'industrie. Cependant, Don a inculqué ces valeurs à la génération suivante afin qu'elles soient utilisées dans tous les aspects de la gestion de l'entreprise et c'est ainsi que la cinquième génération est prête à conduire le Groupe d'entreprises Campbell dans les prochaines décennies.

Don a touché les cœurs de plusieurs personnes et il manquera à tous. Ses employés, ses amis et sa famille s'assureront que son héritage se poursuive avec la génération suivante ainsi que les autres générations qui suivront.

Sur une note plus personnelle, j'aimerais vous remercier tous pour m'avoir donné l'opportunité ainsi que votre confiance pour agir à titre de Président du Conseil au cours des dernières années. En 2005, j'avais été invité par le président en poste à ce moment-là, John Levi, à me joindre au Conseil à titre de Directeur. Depuis ce temps, j'ai servi à titre de Directeur, secrétaire-trésorier, Vice-président et Président du Conseil. Je considère comme un privilège le fait de m'être vu confié ces responsabilités. J'ai vécu beaucoup de changements au cours des 12 dernières années, un intérêt renouvelé à l'égard de notre association et j'entrevois maintenant un avenir prometteur pour celle-ci. Alors que je me retirerai de cette position au moins de novembre prochain, j'aimerais souhaiter la bienvenue à Cam Carswell de Saskatoon au poste de nouveau Président du Conseil. Cam apporte avec lui de nombreuses années d'expérience dans notre industrie. Il agit actuellement à titre de Vice-président du Conseil et il a également été Directeur pendant plusieurs années. # Canadian Employers are on the Move to Create Psychologically Healthy and Safe Workplaces

By Leanne Fournier

A psychologically healthy and safe workplace is one that actively works to prevent harm to worker psychological health

LIKE MANY, OWNER-MANAGERS TODAY are experiencing increasing levels of stress due to an uncertain economy, disruptive technologies, increasing regulatory requirements and rogue competition.

Employees are also facing workplace stressors from precarious employment, including seasonal and part-time work, to the changing nature of the work itself.

Mary Ann Baynton, Executive Director for the Great-West Life Centre for Mental Health in the Workplace (the Centre), says frontline employees encounter incredible demands from working with clients who may themselves be stressed and, in some cases, vulnerable due to financial or other personal challenges.

“Workplace stressors like these have the potential to cause psychological harm that can increase the risk for conditions such as anxiety, depression, traumatic stress and burnout,” Baynton explains. “Dealing with psychological health and safety in the workplace is similar to dealing with physical health and safety,” she said. “It’s not as much of a burden as people might anticipate. It comes down to the way we treat people.”

A psychologically healthy and safe workplace is one that actively works to prevent harm to worker psychological health, including in negligent, reckless or intentional ways. While employees working in highly stressful settings are at risk for harm, those who are more resilient and have strategies to cope are less likely to be as seriously impacted.

■ Why resilience is important for teams

Baynton describes resilience as the ability to withstand both everyday stressors and more serious incidents without damage to mental health, such as depression or anxiety.

“The more unprepared or powerless someone feels in a situation, the more likely they may be at risk of harm; however, this risk can be reduced when you have the support of team members, prepare for challenging situations and develop relevant problem solving skills,” Baynton says.

Workplace team building is one way to help employees build their resilience and should include preparation for potential exposure to challenging situations. Knowing where to turn for help in the moment helps reduce negative outcomes. Simulations of situations, such as dealing with angry clients, bullying from co-workers or leaders, violence, humiliation, discrimination or even changes in work roles or discipline, can help support a more effective response.

■ The value of mindfulness

Baynton adds that mindfulness, which is being present in the moment without judgment about what is happening, is another strategy that can be particularly effective for promoting resilience for frontline employees dealing with difficult or stressed out co-workers or clients. “This can be as simple as refraining from judging an employee or client who is going through a particularly challenging or difficult transition,” she said.

■ The business case for psychological health and safety in workplaces

In the preface for the book, The Evolution of Workplace Mental Health in Canada—Toward a standard for psychological health and safety, which we co-authored, Baynton wrote: “We hoped to move beyond the idea that mental health was exclusively an individual’s responsibility and recognize that the way work environments were managed mattered...We figured that if all workplace stakeholders (employers, unions, and employees) shared the responsibility to protect psychological health and safety in the workplace, it could also prevent some of the worst impacts on mental health.”

Baynton is describing the thinking behind the voluntary National Standard of Canada for Psychological Health and Safety in the Workplace (the Standard) that was introduced in 2013. It provides a set of tools (not rules) to help organizations of all sizes achieve the goal of becoming “a workplace that promotes workers’ psychological well-being and actively works to prevent harm to worker psychological health, including in negligent, reckless or intentional ways”.

Baynton adds that there is a “growing awareness of the impact of activities such as how work is organized, how instructions are given, how leaders support employees, how conflict is resolved, and how people relate to each other in work teams.”

In fact, in a 2009 Ipsos Reid survey on psychological health and safety, commissioned by the Centre, 19% of Canadian employees felt their workplaces were not psychologically safe. Through the work being done by employers across the country, this has been reduced to just 10% in 2016.

The stressors of the moving industry are unlikely to change. What can change, however, is for more owner-managers to take steps to improve resilience and the overall psychological health and safety of their workplaces as part of progress and a commitment to continuous improvement.

Building team resilience, effectively addressing and resolving conflict, providing clarity about expectations and supporting the success of each employee’s performance are some of the major contributions towards a mentally healthy workplace and can help to reduce costs associated with absenteeism or short- and long-term disability claims. And if there are employees who also live with mental health issues such as depression or anxiety, the same approaches may be protective for them. These are exactly the elements that contribute to organizational success.

Once you see the benefits of taking even small steps to support psychological health and safety in the workplace, there really is no turning back.

Following are suggestions to help frontline moving company employees be mindful on the job:

- 1. Have a clear plan and manage expectations up front. This could include the time you'll arrive, the maximum time you feel it will take to get the job done, some of the things that can slow down the process that may or may not be within the client's control and the preparation that is required by the client to keep the project on time and on budget. Even if the moving company does a great job with communicating this in advance of moving day, taking a few minutes to go over this with the client can reduce stress at all stages.
- 2. Pay full attention when the client is talking to you. If you are not making eye contact and continue to move around doing other tasks, they may feel you are not respecting what they are saying. This can lead to frustration and anger. As an added bonus, if you stop and give them your full attention, they may also get the idea that, if they want you to keep working, they should limit their comments to only those that are necessary.
- 3. Take breaks every 90 minutes, even if it is only for five minutes. Taking a break can help you physically as well as assist you in staying mentally sharp and focused. There's evidence that you will be more productive if you take these breaks than if you push through.
- 4. Be as positive and supportive to your co-workers as possible. If you are communicating and interacting in a respectful way, it is much more likely that the clients and other employees will treat others that way.

Les employeurs Canadiens élaborent des stratégies afin de créer des milieux de travail psychologiquement sains et sécuritaires

Par Leanne Fournier

Un milieu de travail psychologiquement sain et sécuritaire est celui qui travaille activement à prévenir les dommages à la santé psychologique des travailleurs

COMME BEAUCOUP, les propriétaires-gestionnaires connaissent actuellement des niveaux de stress croissants en raison d'une économie incertaine, des bouleversements technologiques, des exigences réglementaires croissantes et de la concurrence déloyale.

Les employés sont également confrontés à des facteurs de stress découlant des emplois précaires, y compris le travail saisonnier et à temps partiel, ainsi que de la nature changeante du travail lui-même.

Mary Ann Baynton, Directrice exécutive du Centre pour la santé mentale en milieu de travail de la Great-West (le Centre), mentionne que les employés de première ligne doivent faire face à des exigences incroyables en travaillant avec des clients qui peuvent également être stressés et, dans certains cas, vulnérables en raison de contraintes financières ou personnelles.

“Les facteurs de stress au travail comme ceux-ci peuvent potentiellement causer des dommages psychologiques qui peuvent augmenter le risque de maladies telles que l'anxiété, la dépression, le stress post-traumatique et l'épuisement professionnel,” explique madame Baynton. “La gestion de la santé et sécurité psychologiques sur le lieu de travail est similaire à la gestion de la santé et de la sécurité physiques », dit-elle. “Ce n'est pas un fardeau aussi lourd que les gens pourraient anticiper. Cela se résume à la façon dont nous traitons les gens.”

Un milieu de travail psychologiquement sain et sécuritaire est celui qui travaille activement à prévenir les dommages à la santé psychologique des travailleurs, y compris les actions négligentes, imprudentes ou intentionnelles. Tandis que les employés qui travaillent dans des environnements très stressants courent le risque de se blesser, ceux qui sont plus résilients et ont des stratégies pour y faire face sont moins susceptibles d'être aussi gravement touchés.

■ Pourquoi la résilience est importante pour les équipes

Madame Baynton décrit la résilience comme la capacité de résister à tous les facteurs de stress quotidien ainsi qu'à des incidents plus sérieux sans dommage à leur santé mentale, comme la dépression ou l'anxiété.

“Plus une personne se sent non préparée ou démunie face à une situation donnée, plus elle aura de chances d'être exposée à une blessure; cependant, ce risque peut être réduit lorsque vous avez le soutien des membres de l'équipe, que vous vous préparez à affronter des situations difficiles et que vous développez des compétences pertinentes en résolution de problèmes” dit madame Baynton.

Le renforcement des équipes en milieu de travail est une façon d'aider les employés à développer leur résilience et devrait inclure une préparation pour faire face à une exposition potentielle à des situations difficiles. Savoir où demander de l'aide au bon moment aide à réduire les conséquences négatives. Les simulations de situations, telles que le traitement de clients en colère, l'intimidation de collègues ou de dirigeants, la violence, l'humiliation, la discrimination ou même les changements dans les rôles de travail ou la discipline peuvent aider à apporter une réponse plus efficace.

■ La valeur de la pleine conscience

Madame Baynton ajoute que cet état de pleine conscience, qui requiert d'être conscient du moment présent sans jugement sur ce qui se passe, est une autre stratégie qui peut être particulièrement efficace pour promouvoir la résilience des employés de première ligne qui s'occupent de collègues ou de clients difficiles ou stressés. «Cela peut être aussi simple que de s'abstenir de juger un employé ou un client qui subit une situation particulièrement difficile ou une transition difficile», dit-elle.

■ L'étude de cas de la santé et la sécurité psychologiques dans un milieu de travail.

Dans la préface du livre, The Evolution of Workplace Mental Health in Canada—Toward a standard for psychological health and safety, que nous avons co-écrit, Mary Ann Baynton dit: «Nous espérons aller au-delà de l'idée que la santé mentale était exclusivement de la responsabilité d'un individu et ainsi reconnaître que la façon dont les milieux de travail étaient gérés importait tout autant ... Nous sommes arrivées à la conclusion que si tous les acteurs du milieu de travail (employeurs, syndicats et employés) partageaient la responsabilité de protéger la santé et la sécurité psychologiques en milieu de travail, cela pourrait également contribuer à prévenir certains des pires impacts possibles sur la santé mentale».

Madame Baynton décrit la pensée derrière les normes volontaires établies dans la Norme nationale en matière de santé et sécurité psychologiques en milieu de travail (la Norme), laquelle a été introduite en 2013. Elle fournit un ensemble d'outils (pas de règles) pour aider les organisations de toutes tailles à atteindre l'objectif de devenir «un milieu de travail qui favorise le bien-être psychologique des travailleurs et travaille activement afin de prévenir les dommages à la santé psychologique des travailleurs, relevant d'actions négligentes, imprudentes ou intentionnelles». Madame Baynton ajoute qu'il existe une «prise de conscience croissante de l'impact des activités telles que la façon dont le travail est organisé, la façon dont les instructions sont données, la façon dont les dirigeants soutiennent les employés, la façon dont les conflits sont résolus et la façon dont les gens dépendent les uns des autres à l'intérieur des équipes de travail». En fait, dans un sondage Ipsos Reid de 2009 sur la santé et la sécurité psychologiques, commandé par le Centre, 19% des employés canadiens ont estimé que leur lieu de travail n'était pas psychologiquement sûr. Grâce aux travaux réalisés par les employeurs à travers le pays, cela a été réduit à seulement 10% en 2016.

Il est peu probable que les facteurs de stress présents dans l'industrie du déménagement changent. Ce qui peut changer, cependant, c'est que plus de propriétaires-gestionnaires prennent des mesures afin d'améliorer la résilience, la santé et la sécurité psychologiques globales de leurs milieux de travail dans le cadre d'un progrès et d'un engagement envers une amélioration continue.

Développer la résilience d'une équipe, s'attaquer efficacement à la résolution d'un conflit, fournir des informations claires relativement aux attentes et supporter la réussite personnelle de chaque employé constituent quelques-unes des contributions importantes relatives à la mise en œuvre d'un milieu de travail plus sain et peuvent également aider à réduire les coûts associés à l'absentéisme ou aux réclamations d'invalidité à court et à long terme. Et s'il y a des employés qui vivent également avec des problèmes de santé mentale comme la dépression ou l'anxiété, les mêmes approches peuvent également contribuer à les protéger. Ce sont exactement les éléments qui contribuent à la réussite de l'organisation.

Une fois que vous constatez les avantages d'appliquer même de toutes petites mesures pour soutenir la santé et la sécurité psychologiques en milieu de travail, il n'y a vraiment plus de retour en arrière possible.

Voici des suggestions pour aider les employés de compagnie de déménagement de première ligne à être attentifs à leur travail.

1. Avoir un plan clair et gérer les attentes à l'avance. Cela pourrait inclure l'heure où vous arrivez, le temps maximum que vous prenez pour accomplir le travail, certaines choses qui peuvent ralentir le processus pouvant ou non être sous le contrôle du client et la préparation requise par le client pour maintenir le projet à l'intérieur des délais et du budget. Même si la compagnie de déménagement fait un excellent travail en communiquant ces informations avant la journée de déménagement, prendre quelques minutes pour vérifier le tout avec le client peut contribuer à réduire le stress à tous les niveaux.
2. Portez attention lorsque le client vous parle. Si vous ne faites pas de contact visuel et continuez à circuler en effectuant d'autres tâches, vos clients peuvent penser que vous n'avez aucun respect relativement à ce qu'ils disent. Ceci peut conduire à la frustration et à la colère. En prime, si vous vous arrêtez et leur consacrez toute votre attention, ils réaliseront possiblement que, s'ils désirent vous voir continuer à travailler, ils se doivent de restreindre leurs commentaires uniquement à ceux qui sont requis.
3. Faites une pause chaque 90 minutes, même si ce n'est que pendant cinq minutes. Prendre une pause peut vous aider autant physiquement qu'à demeurer mentalement attentif et concentré. Il est évident que vous serez plus productif si vous prenez ces pauses que si vous ne les prenez pas.
4. Soyez aussi positif et coopératif que possible avec vos collègues. Si vous communiquez et interagissez de manière respectueuse, il est beaucoup plus probable que les clients et les autres employés traiteront les autres de la même façon.

Dans tout déménagement donc, les circonstances du moment présent contribuent à confronter deux groupes d'intervenants tous deux grandement stressés par ce qui va survenir. La santé mentale de chacune des deux parties sera testée.

Comment pouvons-nous gérer cette volatilité? Comme déménageur, nous nous efforçons de comprendre le stress auquel est confronté notre client et d'être empathique en utilisant notre formation et la communication, mais plus que tout, en conservant notre sens de l'humour.

Comme nous le découvrirons à l'écoute des conférenciers invités de notre conférence annuelle, le changement est une constante mais, dans le monde d'aujourd'hui, il est d'autant plus compliqué en raison de la vitesse avec laquelle les changements se produisent.

Le changement est inévitable; nous devons l'accepter et avancer. Sur cette note, ma situation personnelle a changé et je me retirerai de la position de Président à la fin du mois de novembre. Le Conseil d'administration a sélectionné la meilleure candidate possible pour diriger l'association pour le futur. Ce fut un honneur pour moi de travailler avec chacun de vous.

-- Today's New Constant

Canadian Association of Movers' 22nd Annual Conference

Sunday, November 19, 2017 (6:00 pm) – Tuesday, November 21, 2017 (9:00 pm)
Hotel William Gray, 421 Rue St-Vincent, Vieux Montréal, Québec H2Y 3A6 Canada

Change -- Today's New Constant

Dear fellow moving professional:

I am pleased to invite you to attend the Canadian Association of Movers' 22nd annual conference in charming Montreal, Quebec, where an exceptional array of world-class speakers will impart their insight and experiences to help build businesses in the Canadian household goods moving industry.

Our theme this year will be Change -- Today's New Constant because, if there's one thing that you can count on, it's that things are going to change. Not only will they change, but they will change much more rapidly. From the complexity of the shifting political and economic climate, to the fast-paced technological advancements, to the regulating and deregulating of day-to-day business processes, our household goods moving industry faces the challenge of keeping up-to-date with the demands of the marketplace.

Our 2017 conference program itself is changing this year and will stand apart from all others. We've extended the program to two full days to provide moving professionals with a greater opportunity to connect with experts at the top of their fields who can provide cutting-edge information that will inspire innovative thinking and provide tools to help build business success.

CAM's partners -- our supplier members and sponsors who endorse CAM and its objectives -- are helping CAM to deliver this quality event to you. Excellent presenters, such as Professor Alan Shepard, President of Concordia University in Montreal, one of Canada's most innovative urban universities, and Ian Studd, Director General of the British Association of Removers, will deliver their views on the changes in society and business that owners and operators have to navigate today. The core issue of constant change will be highlighted by our presenters from the aspects of economics, technology, international trade and local issues.

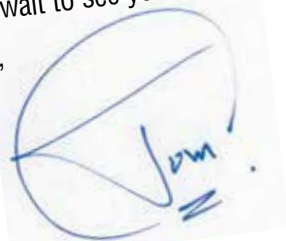

You'll enjoy an informal reception on Sunday evening where attendees can mingle and a trade show where a variety of industry exhibitors will be available to show you their latest products and tell you about their newest services.

New this year, Monday evening will be free for you to explore all that multicultural and historic Old Montreal has to offer visitors. Delegates are urged to bring their spouses and family with them to this captivating and cosmopolitan city where celebrations of the city's 375th anniversary and the 150th anniversary of Canadian Confederation will be in full force. Montreal is a world-class, modern and dynamic metropolis. Its European heritage shines though in the beautiful 18th-century buildings and cobblestone streets of Old Montreal. Montreal lives in both French and English, but its multicultural population is really what shapes the cuisine and culture offered in the host of gourmet restaurants, cafés, bars, clubs, galleries, museums and boutiques.

On Tuesday afternoon, you'll enjoy an optional tour of the Port of Montreal. The conference will close on Tuesday evening at CAM's very popular Chairman's Reception and Annual Awards Dinner where we will honour distinguished members in the industry.

We can't wait to see you there!

Regards,

Tom Filgiano
Chairman, CAM's Annual Conference Committee

Great
convention.
Can't wait 'til

SESSIONS

Brexit, the UK Moving Market and the BAR

Sponsor:

*Ian Studd, Director General,
British Association of Removers*

As a conference with a focus on change, it is timely to discuss the massive changes the United Kingdom is facing in its trading patterns with the decision to exit the European Union. Much is still unknown and speculation is mounting as negotiations begin.

Change in the Workplace

Christine Sayegh-Filgiano, Senior Vice President, Strategy and Operations, Caisse de dépôt et placement du Québec Mario Lefebvre, Vice President, Research (Global Real Estate Markets), Ivanhoé Cambridge

We have two co-presenters tackling the issue of workplace change. They will provide different perspectives on change and how it can and will affect the moving industry.

Planning in the Face of Change

Change is everywhere. Your clients are changing, your equipment and your employees are changing. Your computers are changing. Even your cell phone is behaving differently from year to year. What about your business and operating risks? Are they changing as well? How do you deal with things being different all the time? How do you adapt personally as business owners and managers? Where do you even start? Christine Sayegh-Filgiano will explain how strategic planning and risk assessments are not just for multinational corporations.

Change...Better Embrace IT

In this day and age of rapidly evolving technology, resisting change is a recipe for disaster. For those willing to embrace change, however, the opportunities generated by it are right next to limitless. The moving and storage industry is not immune to change. From driverless trucks to robotization, some may perceive these development as threats. Mario Lefebvre will reveal how, if used properly, they are definite opportunities.

Adapt Now - Practical Survival Steps

Mark Oakeshott, VP - Customer Success, Crater Group Co.

The future of the moving industry in the developed world has never been so uncertain. During this presentation and discussion we will look at the threats to moving companies in 2017 and beyond, but more importantly, actions and strategies that you can adopt immediately to help you survive and grow in this new environment.

The Coming Challenges for the Trucking Industry and their Implications

Marc Cadieux, CEO, Quebec Trucking Association

Change is not coming. It's already here. The trucking industry, which includes household goods carriers, will encounter significant challenges in the time to come, both domestic and cross-border. It is how we handle these challenges that will determine our success as movers and truckers.

SESSIONS

The Changing Nature of Leadership Roles

Sponsor:

Alan Shepard, President of Concordia University

With all the whirlwind technology change we are experiencing, we also face a lot of change in terms of how people work together and, in particular, how the next generation of young people view the world of work, how they view leaders and leadership and how they engage with companies. This session will address two issues – the impact of these changes on the work environment and the changing nature of leadership roles as a result.

How Technology Innovation is Leading to Industry Disruption

Doug Robinson, Managing Director, IBM

Doug Robinson has spent most of his career in and around the travel and transportation industry. This industry is going through a series of disruptions being driven often by technical innovations. Doug's presentation will focus on these disruptions and on specific technologies, including Blockchain, Hybrid Cloud Enablement, Analytics and Cognitive technologies, Mobile innovation for Clients, Mobile innovation for Employees, Internet of Things, bots and voice tools and how they are being used to change industries. Also how leading companies are using these tools for business outcomes like predictive maintenance, customer insight, personality profiling, weather data aggregation and social media analytics to both disrupt industries and provide differentiation in services and offerings.
